
Message from the Vice President

Dear Student Affairs Colleagues,

I have been so taken by the crisp mornings and warm blue sky afternoons of autumn in New Mexico. Last week I submitted the Student Affairs contribution to the Main Campus Planning Form. This critical process is where we as a division have the opportunity to outline how our work is currently structured and resourced and identify areas of need in order to better serve our students and increase equitable success outcomes across the student body. The division this year outlined 22 recurring requests and seven one-time requests. Though the entirety of this request will almost certainly not be met in a single year, we've taken an important step to clearly articulate areas for future investment in the student support infrastructure at UNM and we are now poised to comprehensively demonstrate the interconnectivity of these requests in future planning cycles. Speaking of investments in the student experience, attendees at the Association of Black Culture Centers Conference last week were supported by our skilled team in African American Student Service in the successful implementation of a major campus event including a Friday night keynote with Dr. Ibram X. Kendi that I had the pleasure of attending with some of our student affairs and academic affairs leaders. On Friday we celebrate Veteran's at the Alumni Memorial Chapter at 10AM and across campus throughout the day where we honor those who have served and their families. Though I am enjoying every day, I am looking forward to the upcoming holiday breaks so that we may all rest and re-center.

With appreciation,

Eric

Veteran's Day Celebration & Remembrance

Each Veteran's Day, the UNM Alumni Association teams up with the Veteran's Military & Resource Center to host the traditional Veteran's Day Celebration and Remembrance Friday, Nov. 11 at 10 a.m. in the Alumni Memorial Chapel. The event serves to honor our student veterans, military service members, and their families and the sacrifices they've made. UNM President Stokes will offer opening remarks at the celebration followed by a recognition of fallen UNM service members as well as reflections on Veterans Day from various community members. The ceremony will conclude with a salute to the armed forces performed by the UNM Concert Choir. Check out our Instagram story on Friday as we honor our DSA Veterans.

First Gen Celebration Continues

Yesterday, you may have noticed several of our Lobos wearing their first gen proud shirts and posing for a group picture at lunch time. Hopefully you were able to engage them in conversation about what the #unmiamfirst title means to them. Throughout this week, we are shining a spotlight on some of first gen proud Lobos on our social media channels. Be sure to check our Student Affairs and UNM Instagram channels highlighting some of our first gen proud Lobos.

American Indian Heritage Month

As we continue to honor American Indian Heritage Month, we wanted to make you aware of some of the events happening this week. Today from 4-5 p.m., AISS is hosting their Student Success Workshop – How to Apply to Graduate School. Tomorrow night

UNM Language Learning Center will be hosting their Native American Movie night featuring, “Rumble: The Indian who Rocked the World” from 4 to 6 p.m. in Ortega Hall, Room 124. On Friday, AISS is hosting their FAFSA-For-U Workshop from 1 to 4 p.m. in their office, 1119 Mesa Vista Hall. in recognition of American Indian Heritage Month. Throughout November American Indian Student Services, Native American Studies, Center for Native American Health, and several chartered student organizations invite the entire campus community to attend and participate in a variety of public and cost-free educational, social, cultural, and artistic programming initiatives.
