MESSAGE FROM THE VICE PRESIDENT

And we're off! This is a big week at UNM as our new Lobos (and I) find our way around the campus community. I'm so thankful that you are part of our pack! Last week I had the pleasure of helping students move in, attending Friday Night Live and had the opportunity to share remarks at the TRIO Orientation Lunch, fraternities and sororities retreat, and ASUNM retreat followed by Freshman Convocation and Class Crawl. This week Welcome Back Days are in full swing with several great events already passed and more to come. I am also excited to connect with our community as Student Affairs hosts the annual El Mezquite Gold Tournament. As a terrible golfer, this is sure to be a fun day for everyone as I help aerate the fields of the Isleta Golf Club. I continue to be grateful for your welcome and the excellent work underway to support our students and am looking forward to visiting with each department beginning in September.
~Eric

Q What is a skill that you think everyone should have?

A I think we should all always be working on our emotional intelligence. I have found it incredibly important to seek to know yourself, understand others, and explore how we fit together as a society of human beings.
